CREDO reference

Partnering with many of the world's leading publishers, Credo Reference combines publishing expertise with unique proprietary technology that integrates information through a network of intelligent, multi-dimensional cross-references, delivering real value to researchers, businesses and information professionals worldwide.

What's your challenge?

- On-demand, relevant information required to make decisions
- Navigating to internal and external knowledge and information
- Accessing knowledge and information on a global basis
- Limited time to acquire the knowledge needed
- Monitoring and improving quality and currency of information
- Staying current on new developments
- Managing more business with reduced budgets and headcount
- Getting the right information, at the right time, to the right people, for the right price

What can Credo Reference do for you?

Credo Reference's Business eReference collection offers the greatest value in a pre-selected, subscription database from premier publishers including A&C Black, Collins, Edward Elgar, Elsevier, Houghton Mifflin, John Wiley & Sons and more.

The Business eReference collection (over 50 eReference titles as of January 2009) covers a wide range of topics in business, economics and general reference.

Credo Reference's custom collection option offers the flexibility to add individual titles from an award winning library of nearly 400 eReference titles, with over 3,000,000 entries from over 60 of the world's leading publishers.

What are the key benefits to you?

- Best value in General and Business eReference content
- Flexibility to subscribe to pre-set and add custom collections
- Simultaneous, multi-user access worldwide
- Current, relevant eReference with new editions updated at no additional cost throughout the subscription term

- Credo Reference documents can be cross referenced, are full-text searchable, and integrate with other internal and external web-based knowledge and information resources
- Unlimited access to COUNTER compliant usage reports
