

FURTHER INFORMATION:

info@localko.com

Local Knowledge Online (LKO) and SLA's Click University Add Credo Reference

New eReference Collection to be Showcased at SLA, Booth #852

June 9, 2009 – Danville, CA – Together with ClickU, Local Knowledge Online (LKO), has added free access to a special collection of eReference titles from Credo Reference for SLA members only. Credo Reference is an award winning eReference resource that combines publishing expertise with unique proprietary technology.

How Good Is It?

Library Journal rated 176 eReference resources in their 2009 Reference Issue and Credo Reference was the only resource that received a perfect score!

"This file's strong content, accessibility, and impressive scope earn it a resounding ten."
– Library Journal, 2/15/2009

The special SLA collection of Credo Reference features dictionaries and encyclopedias covering Information and Library Management, Business, Finance, Legal, Medical and Language from publishers such as A&C Black, Collins, and John Wiley.

SLA members interested in seeing in a demonstration of Credo Reference can visit Local Knowledge Online at the Special Libraries Association (SLA) booth #852 or email sales@localko.com.

About Local Knowledge Online (www.localko.com)

Local Knowledge Online (LKO) is a single source provider of eContent for scientists, engineers, business and information professionals. LKO is an authorized reseller of Credo Reference, ebrary, execuBooks (execuGo Media) and Morgan & Claypool serving the corporate market in the United States.

About Credo Reference (<http://corp.credoreference.com/>)

Credo Reference, with offices in Oxford and Boston, has been offering completely customizable reference collections for libraries since 1999. Formerly known as Xrefer, Credo's General Reference and Specialist Reference services combine extensive content from multiple publishers with unique cross-referencing technology, effortlessly delivering authoritative answers to millions of researchers worldwide.

###